AMUSEMENTS.

More Melodrama at the Park.

The hundreds of persons in this city that go to the Park Theater for their theatrical entertainment can find no fault with "Caught in the Web." The two audiences that saw the play yesterday heartily approved it. It is made according to the old melodramatic pattern, and no essay into perilous originality mars it. Joseph Le Brandt, the author, knows the trade of made this play like all the preceding ones patrons demand and revel in. There are, however, three noteworthy points in the company-the young woman that has the part of the heroine is bright comingly. Her name is Norma Hyatt, and if she does not seem to be much of an actress it should be charged to the commonplace play for the sake of her quiet, pleasing personality. Daniel Reed, who plays second viliain, looks the part better than any actor similarly cast that has come to the Park for several seasons, and he acts the character almost as well as he looks it. Miss Madge Tucker, who is the ingenue of the company and plays Edna Stanley, is an Indianapolis girl.

The scenic equipment of the play is more than usually extensive. It will be presented this afternoon and to-night and tomorrow afternoon and night. Charles H. Boyle, a clever comedian, will bring his company in "The Star Boarder" to the Park next Monday.

AS GOES THE WEST.

Hosts of Labor Ultimately Will Return to Their Work.

Chicago Journal, The "surprises" that President Shaffer foretold for the country have probably been more surprising to himself than to any one else. First came President Gompers's rather lukewarm approval of the strike, with a pledge of financial assistance for the strikers. This was far from being what Pres-have been of avail in the present emergency of the Amalgamated Association. This tepid attitude of President Gompers undoubtedly had an influence on the second "surprise" that awaited Mr. Shaffer, and that is the action of the Western steel workers yesterday. The West has declared itself opposed to the strike and refuses to go out. The men declare that they have no reason to quit work at this time, that they are bound in honor as well as law by their contracts, and they must perform them.

In taking this stand they have not only shown themselves to be high-minded men and worthy members of the community, but | Thursday, three miles below Edinburg, they and pretty and knows how to dress be- that they are the best friends of unionism. They refuse to drag their unions through the mire of dishonor and of broken pledges, and in so doing exalt them into their proper plane of usefulness.

I could not love thee, dear, so much, Loved I not honor more, is a sentiment that applies to other affairs than those of love, for when men exalt | their honor above their inclinations they are then best fitted to perform their duties to God, their neighbors and themselves. In deciding not to strike the Western steel workers find themselves justified also by the advice of M. M. Garland, the predecessor of Mr. Shaffer as president of the when the rail straighteners struck at the South Chicago mills in violation of their contract, President Garland wrote in disapproval of their act, saying that the association, as an organization, could not uphold their action. "Our practice," he said, "is that a contract once agreed upon should be held inviolable by both.'

This advice was sound then, and it is sound now, and it is a great pity that President Shaffer had not acted on the lines of this precedent. This action of the Western workingmen breaks the backbone of the strike, and it is now only a question of a short time when the Eastern men will be hurrying back to President Shaffer should make the way easy for them by acknowledging his error and want of judgment and declaring the strike off.

Untrustworthy Correspondence. Arthur Lynch, in the Outlook

The most fertile field for ingenious reporters is undoubtedly a war campaign. I lo not speak particularly of the South African war-for it is becoming increasingly evident that long before the war, as during its continuance, a well-organized system of falsification of news was in operation-I speak of war correspondence generally. One of the most famous of all war correspondents was undoubtedly Edward O'Donovan, who perished with the army of Hicks Pasha in the Sudan. O'Donovan was endowed with Celtic exuberance, allied to a perfectly Oriental richness of coloring and he could pile up graphic details with a facility only possible to one who loved his The traditions of mendacity that continued, only the tone of romance and poetry and the genial atmosphere have lisappeared. Lieutenant Evans reports that he has not seen or heard of any insurgents recently on the island of Mindoro. He reports burning a camp, however, and he succeeded in capturing thirty tons of rice. He says the people in the valley back of Naujan reside in the richest farming country of the island. The district is thickly settled and plentifully supplied with cattle and rice. General Chaffee is greatly pleased by these accounts from the province of Batangas and the island of Mindoro. The United States Philippine Commission was prevented by the weather from landing at Iba, province of Zambales, and arrived at San Fernando, province of Union, to-day. The commissioners met with an enthusiastic reception. Five bands of music escorted Judge Taft in a carriage to the town hall, where the banquet had been Joaquin pointed Governor. The residents of that province are unanimous as to the advisability of establishing civil government in that district. The commission left San Fernando this evening.

WHEAT PILED ON THE GROUND. Thousands of Bushels Without Elevator Room in Kansas.

Kansas City Star.

It is not an uncommon sight in Kansas to see great piles of wheat on the ground. Fresh from the threshing machine it looks like a pile of gold as it glistens in the sunlight. It is gold to the farmer. With the ready adaptability of the resourceful Western farmer the grower of wheat doesn't stop to build granaries. He rushes the bearded grain to the threshing machine and piles the golden kernels on the ground while his son or an agent is importuning the railroads for cars to take the grain to the nearest market. All of the Kansas elevators are full and the farmer has no other recourse. There has been a car famine ever since the middle of June, when the reaper first began its music in the southern portion of the great wheat belt. The western Kansas farmer rushes his wheat to market to save building granaries and rehandling, and then he buys futures against the wheat that he is selling. Returns indicate that the farmers are going to depend more than ever on wheat next year. It is estimated that 16,000,000 acres will be sown n wheat this fall.

The 5,000 bushels of wheat on the ground at Ashville, in Cloud county, Kansas, is one of many instances where it has been necessary to pile the grain on the ground pending transportation to the grain markets. Some of the threshing machines are running from 1,000 to 2,500 bushels a day, and wheat crop has already been marketed. D. L. Croysdale, of the firm of W. The Better English Way. Salt Lake Tribune. 150 to 44, has adopted a resolution authorizing the expenditure of $10,000,000 on dealers say that one-third of the immense | the British Pacific cable. We have been talking a long time about a Pacific cable, but England orders it first. England is a prudent old nation, but when it comes to extending her commerce by way of cable and subsidized ships, or to add protection The wheat crop this year is the largest | to her possessions through quick communiin the history of the State, and it is of the cation, she pours out money like water.

Ambition to Be President.

Theodore Roosevelt admits that he is andidate for President whenever the people want him, but he adds that, "as 6,000,-000 other Americans are, or ought to be candidates also," his chance is small. Mr Roosevelt's acknowledgement of political ambition as an honorable distinction is sane, manly and healthful, and it contrasts pleasantly with the mock humility and "in-the-hands-of-my-friends" attitude which has been thought "good form" by their wheat to market does not necessarily indicate a bearish feeling on the part of men who felt that a frank statement like the farmers. Some dealers say that one- that of the Vice President would belittle
